T. LAURENT REFUSES REQUEST FOR UNEMPLOYMENT PARLEY

Disregard Statistics Gregg Says

ST. JOHN'S (CP)—A CCF pro-labor-management conference to check unemployment was rejected Tuesday by Prime Minister St. Laurent.

At the same time, Labor Minister St. Laurent said in the Commons that the government job-creation program is in a better position for a number of past months than for a number of past months.

He said that the government figures show that 286,000 out of 1,000,000 jobs at Jan. 1, 1955, were higher than six months ago, except for last year since the Second World War.

Mr. St. Laurent promptly rejected the suggestion that the government is doing its best to create jobs during this period of unemployment.

New Storms Sweep Europe; Death Toll Raised To 747

Some Sections Get Relief

LONDON (AP)—Heavy snowstorms brought new hardship Tuesday to Europe's shivering millions in their record 22-day frigid siege. The death toll rose to 747.

Weathermen promised no immediate relief but there were some brighter spots.

A brilliant sun warmed Rome and central Italian regions after the country's longest bad weather spell in history. But forecasters predicted new snowfall and freezing temperatures.

Most parts of Sweden bathed in sun. Temperatures climbed above the freezing point in central and southern Sweden for the first time in three weeks. Deep snow blanketed southwestern France. Snow plows were called in from the Pyrenees mountains to open streets. Some city dwellers moved about on skis.

Snow fell over most of England. The whole of the country's eastern seaboard road network, from Dover 400 miles north to Bewick-on-Tweed, was blocked by snow and ice.

Snowstorms have raged over Czechoslovakia for two days and snowdrifts 12 feet high were reported in some places.

A sharp earthquake rocked a large part of Turkey, causing five deaths. An estimated 1,200 homes were destroyed.

RESORT UNDER SNOW

Spain's sunny Balearic Islands, a winter vacation resort, were blanketed in snow. Temperatures everywhere in France were below freezing point. Paris had its coldest Feb. 21 on record—eight degrees above.

The mercury dropped to four degrees below in the Dutch port of Friesland—the lowest since 1888. Light automobiles skidded across the frozen lower Rhine at Culemborg.

In Germany, hunters began mercy shooting of deer trapped in the ice and snow. U.S. Army engineers blasted ice jams at a Rhine river bridge in Mainz. Near zero night temperatures were forecast.

Thaw in southern Italy sent avalanches rumbling down hill and mountain sides and disastrous early spring floods are feared.

Dozens of ships still were stuck fast in the thick Baltic ice off Sweden's coast.

Govt. Holds Off Action In Brazilian Rebellion

Tries Arrange Terms With Jungle Rebels

RIO DE JANEIRO (Reuters)—The Brazilian government Tuesday was reported to have assured the leaders of a growing revolt in the upper Amazon valley that there would be no reprisals if they surrendered immediately.

A source close to President Juscelino Kubitschek revealed that a special plane left Rio de Janeiro for Belém carrying this offer to the rebels now holding five airfields on both sides of the Amazon and have taken over a city of 40,000 as their headquarters.

It was not indicated if the letter signed by the air minister, Brig. Alves Seco, was to be dropped from the air or delivered by some other means.

At the same time, orders were radioed to government forces not to launch operations against the rebels for another 24 hours, the sources said.

Army, navy and air force reinforcements were sent up the Amazon to meet the threat of the spreading revolt.

Planes carrying troops were flying to the trouble spot, 1,500 miles north of here.

The government of new President Kubitschek has ordered a "ring of steel" thrown around the rebel headquarters at Santarem, a town of 40,000 inhabitants.

Maj. Haroldo Coimbra Veloso, leader of the jungle revolt, said in an interview that he "dominates militarily" the town of Santarem.

The man first sent to capture him, Maj. Paulo Victor, who went over to his side, is in charge of a strongpoint at Belterra, one of the captured airfields, the leader said.

A reporter found Veloso sleeping on a mattress on the floor, with a machine-gun and small arms at his side.

He joked about the ship Presidente Vargas, which is carrying 500 soldiers and airmen up river with orders to capture him.

Aid Local Hospitals

OTTAWA—CP—Three Newfoundland hospitals will share federal health grants of $17,040 for expansion and construction, the Health Department announced Tuesday.

The International Grenfell Association is to receive $10,040 towards construction of a new building.

Another $3,000 goes towards an extension to the Hamilton Valley nursing station and $4,000 has been granted St. Clare's Mercy Hospital in St. John's for equipment used in child and infant care.

Perfects Pocket Size Jet Plane

By ROBERT RICE
Canadian Press Staff Writer
WOODLEY, England (CP)—In a small frame hangar, overlooking a grassy landing strip near this Berkshire village, a former Nova Scotian is carefully perfecting a pocket-sized jet plane.

The two-seater prototype, barely three times as long as its lanky designer, Hugh Kendall, formerly of Windsor, N. S., has a wing span of 22.8 feet and an over-all length of 20.9 feet. Maximum speed is expected to be 330 miles an hour.

"It might be described as a light jet trainer—a sports-type jet, if you like," says 41-year-old Kendall, whose father, now dead, was a former lieutenant-governor of Nova Scotia. "It's the flying equivalent of a fast sports car."

Powered by a French-made jet, so diminutive a strong man could easily pick it up, the sleek yellow plane is one of the world's smallest jets, and Kendall has great hopes for it. This summer, after final modifications and test flights, he would like to market the plane commercially, perhaps to countries that can't afford to buy and maintain larger jet trainers.

Kendall, who flew for the wartime air transport auxiliary and later was a test pilot for the fleet air arm, has taken his plane into the air about 40 times. He uses the same landing strip as test pilots of the nearby Handley Page aeronautical works.

"The first flight, in October last year, lasted about 12 minutes—and that was long enough. We found it was spilling its oil overboard."

Dulles To Appear On Tanks Deal

WASHINGTON (A.P.)—Chairman Walter George, Dem. Ga., said Tuesday State Secretary Dulles has tentatively agreed to appear Friday before the Senate foreign relations committee for a thorough airing of complaints arising from the tanks-for-Arabia deal.

Ocean Going Raft In Trouble

PANAMA (AP)—The balsa raft Cantuta is in trouble near the Galapagos islands about 1,000 miles southwest of Panama.

Short wave radio dispatches received in Lima and relayed here Tuesday said the four men and one woman aboard the raft were running short of food and fuel oil and one of the crew was ill.

The raft is drifting in the Humboldt current hoping to reach the south sea islands. It left Peru early in December.

The messages said the raft, 30 feet long and 12 feet wide, had been caught in a whirlpool for days and was unable to get out. The radio transmitter aboard became wet and the crew had been unable to make contact with anyone for about three weeks.

Andy Rost, 27, a Dutch seaman, was the ill crew member. Others aboard are Eduardo Ingris, 45, head of the expedition; Mirko Guerequi, 29, Czech radio operator; Joaquin Guerrero, Argentine sportsman and Natalia Mazuelos, 29, Miss Mazuelos made the trip despite suffering from hepatitis.

The radio reports from the raft said only 12 gallons were left for its auxiliary engine. Ships in the area have been asked to come to the raft's aid.

Win Semi-Finals Of Bridge Tourney

NEW YORK (C.P.)—Teams headed by defending champion Howard Schenken and Lewis Jagger, both of New York, Tuesday won their semi-final rounds in the national bridge tournament.

They meet to decide 'the winner of the Vanderbilt Cup championship.

The Schenken team defeated a team headed by Edgar Katlanet, New York by 1,690 points after trailing by 570 points mid-way through Tuesday's round.

Five Killed In Plane Crash

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP)—A Boeing KC-97 Stratofreighter crashed and burned near the Palm Beach air force base late Tuesday and all five crew members were killed.

Eye witnesses said the ship burst into flames along the fuselage as it was coming in to make a landing.

One witness said the flaming ship struck the ground on the north side of Belvedere road, nosed into an embankment and flipped over on its back to skid across the road and into an adjacent field where it was enveloped in flames.

Debaters From Dalhousie Win

HALIFAX (C.P.)—Dalhousie University debaters will represent the Maritimes in the Dominion debating finals at London, Ont., Friday and Saturday. They won a unanimous decision over St. Dunstan's college of Charlottetown here Tuesday night.

Dalhousie speakers Malcolm N. S. Smith of Truro argued against the resolution: International rivalry still holds more promises than threats for the future of mankind.

St. Dunstan's debaters were Ian Gillies of Charlottetown and Leo Fiedle of Corner Brook, Newfoundland.

Politicians To Get Free T.V. Time

Canadian Press Staff Writer
OTTAWA (CP)—Free-time political television broadcasts on which Canadian politicians may illustrate their arguments will be inaugurated in April over CBC and private television stations.

The CBC said Tuesday that arrangements for a series of between-election political broadcasts this spring and summer were approved at a meeting between the publicly-owned corporation and members of the four political parties represented in the Commons.

The arrangements were announced at a time when political parties are stepping up preparations for the next federal general election, expected sometime next year or early in 1958.

The political telecasts will be on Fridays and will start April 13 on stations on the English-language network and April 20 over stations on the French-language network.

Each network will carry 10 broadcasts of 10 minutes each on alternate Fridays.

Under the plan, time allotted to each party will be based on representation in the Commons. The Liberals will have four periods, Progressive Conservatives three, CCF two and Social Credit one.

The announcement was welcomed by George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, CCF Leader M. J. Coldwell and Rev. E. G. Hansell, acting Social Credit leader.

However, Mr. Drew said he disagreed with each telecast being limited to 10 minutes.

CAN'T SEE REASON

"I am not satisfied that there is any good reason why these discussions should be limited to 10 minutes when all other panel discussions are allowed at least 15 minutes and some of them half an hour," he said. "The general agreement is that panel discussions cannot be conducted satisfactorily in less than 15 minutes."

Mr. Hansell said his party is not too happy about the amount of time it has been allotted. Social Credit had received a fair share of time on the basis of its Commons representation, but "one broadcast in 10 is hardly enough to permit us to present our views to the public."

To Form British "Shock Brigade"

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain will create a mobile "shock brigade" of infantry prepared to fly to the aid of any of her overseas territories threatened with local uprisings, the government announced Tuesday.

The disclosure was made in a memorandum on the £479,000,000 army budget estimates for 1956-57. War Minister Anthony Head said Communist aims in the cold war made it essential that Britain should keep some units in constant readiness to carry out the world-wide task of supporting civil government in overseas territories for which Britain is responsible.

This had been one of the British Army's main operational tasks in the last 10 years, but one serious disadvantage was the time taken to train units on arrival at an overseas theatre before they could take part in emergency operations, he said.

SELECT BRIGADE

He announced Britain had selected to be earmarked for such selected independent infantry tasks. These units would provide a flight of light aircraft to support it. A British brigade varies from 4,000 to 5,000 men.

The memorandum also disclosed wide changes to streamline the army for possible atomic and hydrogen warfare.

One aim is to ensure the fighting forces are not burdened down by too many different weapons. This will be achieved by retaining the infantry division but splitting it when necessary into "strong, hard-hitting, self-contained groups."

Help For Bachelors? United Church Board Reviews Many Topics

TORONTO (CP)—The United Church of Canada's board of evangelism and social service met Tuesday for its annual meeting and discussed a wide range of topics from automation to church giving.

Board members had something to say on television, advertising, news media, the CBC, prairies gambling, working mothers, bachelors (male and female) and Vancouver sin, besides automation and church giving.

Rev. J. R. Mutchmore, board secretary, chose automation, working mothers, television and bachelors. He attacked automation and television because, he said, one creates vision because, he said, one creates empty heads. He said working mothers should stay home and look after their children and the church should do something to help the "lonely and lost" bachelors of both sexes in our larger cities to feel they have some part in our community.

Rev. W. G. Barry, the board's associate secretary, said advertising, with its emphasis on sex and making money, threatens the whole fabric of Christian morals and truth.

News media, he said, are not much better because of their often salacious content and their "ceaseless search after sensations that will increase circulation."

PRAIRES CBC

Mr. Barry praised the CBC "in its efforts to build up rather than destroy."

The number of different weapons used by each will be reduced, and armor will be integrated into the infantry brigade.

Britain now possesses the best armored car in existence, the new "Saladin," which will take part in manoeuvres this year, the memorandum said.

Expel Reporter From Parliament

CAPETOWN (Reuters)—The political correspondent of the Durban newspaper, Natal Mercury, has been expelled from the South African Parliament because of an article which appeared on the newspaper's front page February 14.

The article which is said to have given offence was written by the newspaper's editor under the nom-de-plume "Onlooker."

It was published the day after the opening of a joint sitting of Parliament at which the South Africa Act amendment, bill was considered.

The article said: "This is not a Parliament as we have been brought up to know it. In less than 15 minutes this morning the joint session staged the scene for the biggest prostitution of democracy this country has ever known."

The article referred to the joint sitting of Parliament February 13 when Prime Minister Johannes Strijdom gave notice of the Nationalist government's constitutional legislation to separate colored mixed blood voters from the common electoral rolls.

Destroy, the best in Canadian culture

People in the prairies were criticized by Rev. Homer Lane, of Saskatoon, for their gambling habits. He said people who sponsor such charity games as "king-bing, rinko and halo" are often leading church members but do not heed the counsels of their church. He said games violate the Criminal Code.

Knob Lake Missing

HALIFAX—CP—RCMP and Rescue reported Tuesday night an Air Force helicopter was missing in the Lake area of northern Labrador near the Labrador.

The helicopter failed to return to its base at the Knob Lake RCAF Detachment for a local flight. It was last seen within 20 miles of the base.

Planes were said to be searching for the missing helicopter. Search and Rescue parties here received a request for assistance from aboard the helicopter not known here.

News From Trinity

Extracts from the "Enterprise" 1909 by the late Cannon Smith

Indian Pond And Indians

"Indian Pond received its name from the fact that at one time there was by the margin of the pond an encampment of Red Indians. Captain Whitbourne who visited Trinity as far back as 1581, says that quite a number of Beothics lived near Trinity. They frequently visited the harbour and were friendly terms with the Englishmen."

WHITBOURNE
"Captain Whitbourne prosecuted the fishery in Newfoundland. He visited the country many times during a period of 40 years and to my mind he was a greater benefactor to Newfoundland than Guy. He was here long before Guy's time and for nearly 10 years after Guy left for the last time."

"In 1618 he came out here with a commission from the King as Chief Magistrate of Newfoundland, and with orders to put down piracy. In the last matter he was not so successful as he deserved, for having under his command only 3 armed ships, the pirate Eason had 7 large ships well armed and manned. The said pirate captured Whitbourne. He treated the captain well but kept him for some months in custody."

HISTORY
"A country's history is one of its best assets. To the oldest of Britain's Colonies it is valuable indeed. It is interesting to foreign tourists and attracts them to our shores where they cannot come without spending money for our benefit. A man who takes no interest in the history of the land in which he dwells is not likely to do much for the common weal. He is not in any sense a genuine utilitarian, but simply selfish. His is a penny wise and pound foolish policy which kills the goose that lays the golden egg, for such a person in prosecuting his business has no more regard for the future than he has for the past."

A LESSON OF HISTORY
"One thing is certain if ever we are to regain that Spanish market for our fish which we have lost through our own folly and carelessness, we shall have to learn to cure all our codfish as thoroughly as our forefathers cured it. A hundred years ago if any part of a cargo of fish from Newfoundland was found in a damaged condition, it was because the ship which carried it to market had on her passage met with stormy weather and sprung a leak, not because as at present a part of the cargo was composed of imperfectly cured fish."

THE FISHING ADMIRALS

"The Admiral would naturally select for his own use a good place that lay nearest to the fishing ground. Being near to the fishing ground was a great point with the early fishermen. The Trinity Admiral made his fish on the Beach at Fort Point (on old maps named Admiral's Beach) and set up his stage on the little island near the Point which on that account has ever since been known as Admiral's Island—close to the Admiral. The Vice-Admiral would pitch his tent and next to him the Rear Admiral, the ships keeping as close together as possible for mutual defence and protection against attacks not only from the enemy's ships but more especially from English and French pirates and Algerine Corsairs, the last named generally known as 'Saltee Rovers'."

These "Rovers" were Moors from the North Coast of Africa and in religion Mahomedans, on this account these men were often called "Turks". Hence came into existence "Turk's Cove" on the South Side of Trinity Bay, and "Turks Gut" in Conception Bay, because these were the headquarters of the "Saltee Rovers" and the places where they carried their ships."

THE OLD CANNON BALL IN THE NUDICK
"I can see nothing unreasonable or even extraordinary in there being not one but a dozen shot in various parts of that position of the Nudick which faces East. These balls might not all be of iron, and yet be veritable cannon balls. Down to the reign of Queen Anne, Stone as well as iron shot were in common use in the Royal Navy. Stone shot were then cheaper and more easily procured than iron balls. They were considered to be efficient for 'battering' wooden ships. This might be more readily so, since in those days the smaller men-of-war were not full timbered although the battle ships and large frigates were."

The ball in the Nudick may have come from, or it may have been fired at, an enemy's ship. It may have been aimed at a target anchored in front of the Nudick. It may have come from a cannon on the Fort Point fired as a lark by some mischievous persons after the Fort was abandoned by the Imperial Government. Fifty-five years ago there were plenty of old cannon balls knocking round Trinity."

Lastly—it may have come from a cannon when a salute was being fired in honour of some person, or commemoration of some event.

For the solution of this mystery your readers may take any one of these suppositions they choose."

INTERESTING SIDELIGHT

"The gunward was not invented until the early part of the 18th century, accordingly salutes were fired with shotted guns to give body to the report. Blank cartridge in saluting came with the gunward."

It is amusing to read in old books how strictly artillery officers were charged to see that the ball was a tight fit when the muzzle of the gun was depressed in order to take aim; lest before the gun was fired the ball should discharge itself harmlessly at the enemy by rolling out of the cannon's mouth.

TRINITY NOTES

EXTRACTS FROM TWO

It is on record that when King Charles the Second was reviewing some infantry near London and the Salute had been fired, several of the men in the front rank and also of the by-standers were wounded by musket balls falling upon them. This happened because some of the soldiers when firing had presented their pieces at too high an elevation instead of at an angle of about forty-five degrees. Mr. Pepys who was secretary of the Navy from 1663 to 1688 tells us in his memorable diary of the thrill he expressed at hearing the balls roaring over his head when a salute was being fired in his honour by the fleet at Sheerness."

The Weather

The hopes that prevailed amongst some of us in January for a mild and moderate winter have been dashed by the snows and storms of February. Although the last few days have been on the milder side yet there are piles of snow at fence level and the variation of the fall has in some sections made the longest way round, the shortest way home. This is all the more despairing, from the fact that the several public snow ploughs are out of commission and in need of parts or repairs.

These conditions, too, have delayed the arrival of the electric lights, which, if January's weather had continued, would undoubtedly be here now.

The Enterprise and Local History

The various weekly newspapers published at Trinity from 1886 to 1925, are as far as we are aware, nowhere to be found in the public archives. But there are many copies extant. We have some. We believe that there are sufficient copies around in private homes from which complete sets of those papers could be compiled.

It is a pity that these things are so, because these old papers contain much historical matter, very local for the most part it might be, but history none the less, which in many cases is not to be found anywhere else. Many outstanding prolific writers contributed to their columns, and among them, second to none, was the late Canon W. R. Smith, the then newspapers of his day. He had a prodigious memory and was a master of detail. He was a mutual friend of that eminent Newfoundland historian, the late Archbishop Howley, who held him in high esteem. He was ever in demand by magazine publishers, and especially the Christmas numbers. He responded to our own request in 1920 when we published a Christmas magazine from the "Sun" office at Twillingate, owned and operated by Mr. W. B. Temple. We requested the Canon, because of our limited space, to confine his article to 100 words. When we received it, it was nearer 5000, but because it was of such historic interest in general and to Notre Dame Bay in particular, it all went in. Incidentally, the copy we have is probably the only one in existence today. We hope to transfer it to the local press here.

The late Canon Smith wrote much, historical and otherwise, to some of it to those columns at a later date.

On one occasion he thought he was crowding out other contributions to the local press here and told the editor, he could cheerfully cease, saying, "I can, the more readily do this because the St. John's press is open to me at any time when I desire to write upon matter that is historical."

We are glad that he continued to write to the local press here, or Trinity would have been the poorer in written historic lore.

All that the Canon wrote for the Enterprise was exclusive to that paper. It appeared nowhere else. That was only natural, because for the most part the about Trinity for Trinity papers. So, as we said at the beginning, as far as we know, those old publications are not to be found where in the security of the public archives. What of them, extant, can only be regarded as being in the rubbish heap, subject to the hazards attendant upon rubbish.

It is because of this that we draw upon our limited funds to pull extracts from their columns, much of which is nowhere to be found, and the matter is valuable to risk losing altogether.

The Passing Of Alphonsus Perks

We were sorry to hear of the passing of Alphonsus Perks who lived for several years at Trinity in his young boyhood days when his father the late Sergeant H. Perks was the Constabulary Officer here.

"Fon", as we called him, was our childhood chum while he sojournd here. We went to school together and played together. He left Trinity when he was still quite young. The first time we met since, was by accident last Fall at the Daily News office where he worked. Strange to say we were introduced, and yet not strange, as time makes many changes in form and feature. It was a surprise meeting, and although we

Wedding Bells

The marriage of George, son of Mrs. Bertha (now Mrs. James Penny), and the late Robert Ivany, took place at St. Paul's Church on Monday the 13th inst. Attendees on the Bride were Misses Mary Stanley and Winnifred Sheppard. The Groom was supported by Messrs. William James Clarke and George Arthur Ivany.

After the ceremony a reception was held in the Parish Hall. Best wishes.

were both very young in our days of companionship, yet our mutual recollections became very vivid. "Fon" had not been to Trinity since he first left but hinted at making a visit here during this year. But alas that cannot be. To all the bereaved, we extend our sincere sympathy.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Noth Miller (nee Ella Ploughman), are here at present, from Gander. They brought along with them their new born daughter who was baptized in St. Paul's Church (the church of her parents' marriage over a year ago) on Sunday 12th inst., and received the name Wanda Dianne.

Mr. Arch Rowe who went to Bonaville on Friday for treatment at the Cottage Hospital there, was sent to St. John's on Saturday's train, where he is now hospitalized. Mr. William Rowe, his nephew, boarded the train here to accompany him.

Mr. E. Young, Welfare Officer here, went to St. John's by Friday's train.

The Doctor's Ride

Dr. Wilson has made a ride on his premises at Bay Roberts which he has proclaimed a port of entry to the delight of the youngsters. We have heard that the doctor has some kids free transportation and fro, a distance of nearly miles, in his jeep, and his basement at their disposal a dressing and lunch room. More do the youngsters want that. Oh, that we were young of 50 again!

Mr. and Mrs. Heneke of Dunfield went to St. John's train on Tuesday, on a visit.

Holdin' Ground" In April

Russell's play, "The Holdin' Ground" which was acclaimed as a masterpiece by Miss Pamela Russell, who adjudicated the 1955 Drama Festival at Grand Falls in February, will be staged in St. John's in April.

Nela Griffin of Grand Falls directed the play and the effective stage settings of Newfoundland story, and the news that the North Atlantic Club has been invited to stage the play in St. John's will be sponsored by the Brook Vigilante, at the close of the play in the town hall at 8 p.m. on Friday night.

Play was presented for the first time on Wednesday evening 8th at Grand Falls during the play for the 1955 Drama Festival. Many of the players from Grand Falls and other places were unable to obtain tickets for this show, and by request Mrs. Griffin and company decided to stage the play last week. They had full houses on Thursday and Friday nights because over two hundred people were turned away from the ticket office on these two nights. They gave a third performance on Saturday night to a full house.

Fishing On Pierre Bank

There has been uncertain weather on St. Pierre Banks, and reports of catching lots of haddock one day, but a blank the next.

It appears to be no particular reason for this state of affairs, but in any case many boats have now moved out to Grand Banks, where they are getting excellent catches.

Re-Appointed To Libraries Board

The following persons were recently reappointed by the Governor-in-Council to serve on the Newfoundland Public Libraries Board for a further three-year period—January 1, 1956 to December 31st, 1958—

Many Seals Are Sighted In North

Settlements on the northeast coast report seeing many seals going northward to meet the whelping ice, but very few are being taken.

At LaSalle large schools of old hares were seen, early in February but attempts by landmen to secure some, using boats, nets, and guns met with failure at that time.

Places in the Twillingate and Fogo area also reported seeing many seals, but few taken. At Little Bay Island two seals were taken by landmen.

Fishermen Get Ready For Lobster

The Dept. of Fisheries here reports that fishermen all over Newfoundland are taking great interest in the lobster fishery this year, and it may be a record year in this branch of the industry.

On the east coast and in Placentia Bay particularly, great preparations are being made for the season which opens April 20th, with replacement of gear and manufacture of new equipment occupying the time of most fishermen.

Plans Made For Art Exhibition

Mr. Robert Pilot, MBE, RCA, will judge the art section of the government-sponsored Arts and Letters Competition on Friday morning, February 24th.

At 3 p.m. on that day in the House of Assembly, Premier Smallwood, Hon. J. R. Chalker, Minister of Education, and Mr. Pilot will meet the artists whose paintings are exhibited.

At Saturday morning at 11 o'clock His Honour the Lieutenant Governor will preview the art exhibition. Mr. Pilot will be on hand to accompany His Honour.

The art exhibition will be open to the public at the House of Assembly on Saturday and Sunday, February 25th and 26th, from 2.30 to 5 p.m., and from 8 to 10 p.m.

Through the good offices and co-operation of the Memorial University Students Council, an organized team of student volunteers will be on duty during the periods that the exhibition is open to the public.

Herring Fishery Off

In Placentia Bay the herring fishery has been just about suspended, fishermen there having been getting very poor catches.

At Tack's Beach and Harbour Buffett the fishermen have stopped operations, but will resume when the lobster season opens on April 20th, then catching herring to supply as bait for the lobster fishermen.

New Post For Dr. Pottle

Dr. H. L. Pottle, former provincial Minister of Welfare, has been appointed President of the Lord's Day Alliance of Canada.

Dr. Pottle has held a top post with the United Church of Canada since his resignation last spring as Welfare Minister, and in his new capacity will direct the work of enforcing the provisions of the Lord's Day Act in Canada.

To Clear Gower Street Today

City Engineer Ron Martin has asked for the co-operation of motorists today as Council crews attempt to clear Gower Street of the mounds of snow left by the big storms.

The street will be closed to traffic from 6 a.m. to 6 p.m., and the job should be completed today if the necessary co-operation is forthcoming.

Magistrate's Court

Civil cases of debt took up most of the morning in the Magistrate's Court yesterday.

One man picked up for drunkenness on the street was fined $2.

Two people, a man and a woman, who were charged with drunk and disorderly conduct on Monday afternoon had the charge dismissed. Mr. Myrick, a resident of Military Road, who called the police to his home to arrest the two accused, who were there with his son, said that when he arrived home on Monday evening at 6.45 p.m. the two accused were in his home with his son. There was a sing song going on upstairs, the kitchen window was broken, and the stove overturned and broken.

The three showed signs of drinking, and when he got into the kitchen the son put his back to the door and said he was not going to allow his father to call for the police.

The two accused said in their evidence that they went to the house at the invitation of the son, and shared a bottle of rum between the three. They were not disorderly, they said, and were sitting in the kitchen when the father arrived. Magistrate O'Neill dismissed the charge.

The son was before the family court earlier in the morning and was ordered to keep away from his father's home.

Churchill Park Plan Aims At Easing City Rental Unit Shortage

Premier Smallwood announced yesterday that the Government has given approval to a request by the St. John's Housing Corporation for the erection of a 60-unit apartment building in the Churchill Park area.

Estimated cost of the new building is in the vicinity of a million dollars, and it will be the largest of its type in Newfoundland.

The Premier said the building should be of great assistance in relieving the serious shortage of rental housing in the City.

It will be built on the eastern side of Churchill Square, directly behind the present Linden Court apartments.

On the ground floor level, the apartment building will have 15,000 square feet of commercial space, designed to accommodate the necessary offices for doctors, dentists and commercial outlets necessary in the fast growing Churchill Park area.

The St. John's Housing Corporation already has received several enquiries from persons interested in leasing commercial space in the building. The operation of such commercial and professional offices will have an effect in keeping the apartment rents at the lowest level possible.

The Housing Corporation has been instructed to proceed immediately with the calling of tenders for the construction of the big building, and it is expected that it will be completed in the late fall of this year or early in 1957.

The western side of Churchill Square already is occupied by commercial premises and has become an important shopping centre. The Premier said, however, that the Square itself, located in the centre of the Churchill Park area, will not be built upon. It is hoped to have it landscaped.

Unemployment At Winter Peak

Unemployment in Newfoundland is now at its winter peak, and it is estimated there are 20,000 jobless in the province at this time.

At the St. John's office of the Unemployment Insurance Commission, some 17,000 workers are registered, and there are others at the western office.

Construction work is now opening up, however, and it is thought the situation will ease rapidly. The biggest category of unemployment is in the construction and building trades.

Start Work On New Breakwater

Tidewater Construction Co. has started work on the new breakwater at Port aux Basques, which when finished will enable the "William Carson" to dock in safety there.

Dredging has started at Long Pond, Manuel's, in preparation for the new wharf and breakwater which are to be built there. This work is being done by the Dept. of Public Works.

Carrying mail were grounded at Roddickton awaiting a break for deliveries on Labrador and St. Anthony and Cook's Harbour.

Customs, Post Office

Plans Progress For Federal Buildings

Plans for the construction of the new Post Office and the Customs building here are well advanced, and tenders for their construction will be called this spring or early summer.

Total cost of the two structures is expected to reach about $1,300,000.

The Post Office will be four storeys, extending from Water St. to George St. immediately west of the present G.P.O. The Customs building will occupy most of the space on Duckworth St. and Water Streets between the War Memorial and Cochrane St. It will be seven storeys high on Water St. and four on Duckworth St. It is designed to house offices of some other federal departments besides Customs.

It will take about two years to complete the two buildings.

RCMP officers who arrested the accused on Topsail Road as he was leaving a night club said they considered him to be markedly intoxicated. Two witnesses who were in the car at the time, however, said he had had only two bottles of beer. Magistrate O'Neill gave him the benefit of the doubt.

Squid Jiggin' On Way Out?

Fishermen Now Using Traps

The time-honoured tradition of the "squid jiggin' ground" in Newfoundland may be on way out.

In Conception Bay ports particularly the Carbonara area, fishermen now take squid in specially designed traps.

There is keen interest being shown in that area in the squid fishery, and it is notable that many high school students are preparing to supplement their pocket money by catching squid for sale as bait.

Older fishermen are getting their equipment ready, and many have bought or built boats and dories in readiness for this season's operations. The squid traps which they make are similar to cod traps, but of course with a much finer mesh.

The demand for squid as bait for the fishermen is constant and a good season can mean a substantial addition to the fisherman's income.

Principal New Cr. Brook School

Wycliffe C. Robbins has been appointed principal of the new Anglican school in Corner Brook, it was announced yesterday.

Mr. Robbins has been a teacher for over 20 years, and was appointed principal of the Corner Brook Public School following the resignation of H. M. Batten, now Federal M.P. for Humber.

He served four years as a member of the Corner Brook Town Council.

Drunk Driving Charge Reduced

A local motorist charged with drunken driving had the charge reduced to one of impaired driving in Court here yesterday. He was fined $150 and lost his license for a year.

RCMP officers who arrested the accused on Topsail Road as he was leaving a night club said they considered him to be markedly intoxicated. Two witnesses who were in the car at the time, however, said he had had only two bottles of beer. Magistrate O'Neill gave him the benefit of the doubt.

MR. ROBERT H. HENDERSON, who for the past 37 years has been employed with the Nfld. Margarine Company, retired this month on a pension. He went overseas with the First 500 from Newfoundland in World War One, and joined the Company on Oct. 6th, 1919, on his return. Like all other pensioners in the Nfld. Margarine Company, Mr. Henderson will share in the benefits of the hospital and medical care offered by the Company to all its employees and pensioners and their families. Centenary Scholarships

Few permanent additions to the Newfoundland budget could achieve more good than the $60,000 a year to be allocated for one hundred scholarships to commemorate the centenary of Responsible Government. The method of distribution seems eminently sensible. Virtually all fields of professional study are included and it is particularly important that eligibility is continuous. This last provision is, in fact, essential if the purposes of the awards are to be fully achieved.

There would be little point in assisting a deserving student to acquire his first year in a professional course only to find thereafter that financial considerations prevent him from going on with it. And since this continuous eligibility has been provided, the number of new persons included in the scholarship group each year will presumably be determined largely by attrition in the ranks of the initial winners.

In the case of the education scholarships, it may be found that many winners, having obtained their first year of university training, may be anxious to teach for a while before continuing their studies. Since, in their case, there is a special salary incentive to improve grades which is fairly good at the very beginning, some may wish to obtain practical experience after their first year and trust to savings to enable them to return for further training at some future time.

Of course, a basic aim of a scholarship programme of this kind is to establish a nucleus of young people with talent and professional degrees to contribute in many fields to the progress of this province. The medical profession has benefited from the advances made to medical students under the plan originally introduced by the Commission of Government. Now the new scholarship policy should serve to strengthen the standard of teaching and create a supply of engineers, doctors, dentists and scientists to fill the glaring gaps that now exist.

The important thing is that with the scholarships should go some effort to impress upon winners the need of Newfoundland for professional help in many fields coupled with the hope that most of them will be willing, when they have attained their degrees, to put their skills at the service of their own province. But it is no less essential that the opportunities for the proper use of these services should also be provided.

On that basis, these scholarships should constitute a major contribution to the progress and development of the province.

No Time For Muddle

In a recent speech the Minister for External Affairs said that his recent visit to Russia had left him with "an abiding impression of strength, might and discipline—even dedication—among the people." He added that the Russian objective had not changed and "we are up against a terrific power; not only politically but mechanically."

Other reliable authorities have been saying the same thing and the Russians have been uttering their own warnings. They have not hesitated as well to let the world know that their word counts for nothing. They will use blatant deception when that serves their purpose. Perhaps the outstanding understatement of recent weeks has been the comment of the British Foreign Secretary, Selwyn Lloyd, on the recent production in Moscow of Burgess and Maclean. "This kind of conduct," he said, "shows how difficult it is to establish the relations of mutual trust which the Soviet Union professes to seek." That was something that might have been much earlier discovered.

But at least it is known now that the Russians have boldly admitted their aim of taking over the free world, that they will not be deterred from any useful course by moral or ethical compunctions, that their threat of economic competition is not an idle one, that they are growing in industrial might and that they and their satellites or associates in Communism represent a terrifying power. Despite their talk of massive military retaliation, they want to avoid a war as much as we do but only for the reason that it might result in their own destruction. They are content, therefore, to nibble away at the free countries, win support by bribery and cajolery and clever propaganda, and hope that country by country will put Communists in power and give the Soviet Union an easy victory.

By and large they present a threat so ominous that the west is faced with a new emergency which requires it to mend its fences and confront the enemy with a solid and efficient organization of united free nations. That position does not exist at the moment.

France is weak and divided. The alliance between Greece and Turkey is threatened by conflict over Cyprus. Britain is in the throes of a new economic crisis. The Middle Eastern pot is boiling over. Germany is haggling with her new western allies over garrison costs.

This is a situation that no citizen of the free world can face with complacency. It has to be kept in mind that Communism is danger solidified. It must be faced with a solid front by the free world and there is little time to lose. But consolidation by the west must take other forms besides agreement among political leaders. The naked menace of Communism must be exposed in all its enormity. The people of the western countries must be persuaded to a realization of what is required of them if this threat is to be met in such a way that their security can be assured. We have to be awakened from any sense of false safety in which we may be living and must be prepared to show by appropriate action that what a slave people will do to advance the cause of tyranny is nothing to what a free people will be prepared to do to underwrite its liberties.

Quebec And Newsprint

The Montreal Star has revealed that it will not take advantage of the legislation by which Premier Duplessis has allowed newspapers in Quebec to escape the effects of the recent increase in the price of newsprint.

We respect this distinguished Canadian newspaper for its anxiety to avoid even the "suspicion of a cloud upon its liberty." We are surprised, however, that it can find anything good to be said for the extraordinary course adopted by Quebec's premier in this matter.

No newspaper can view without anxiety any addition to its production costs but the arbitrary action by the Quebec Government to control the price at which newsprint may be sold within the province does not seem to be the right way to preserve the liberties of the press.

The Star thinks the motive of Duplessis was not to encroach on the freedom of the press but to give expression to his belief that the press, to be truly free, must be solvent and financially strong. It may be right. But the fact remains, that every newspaper which takes advantage of the legislation puts itself under an obligation to the provincial government. That is not a good position for a free press to be in.

Strength For To-day

By EARL L. DOUGLASS

FATHER OF HIS COUNTRY

Lincoln has always been a more popular figure with the American people than has Washington. This is undoubtedly because Lincoln was in truth a man of the people while Washington came from what might be called the aristocratic group.

Yet after all, there would have been no country had it not been for George Washington. He is in truth the Father of our Country. We owe our very existence as a nation to him. Historians are practically unanimous in saying that the American Revolution was George Washington. He was not a man of scintillating intellect, but he possessed a capacity for sound judgment which probably no other leader in American life has ever possessed. He saw a few fundamental issues and saw them with complete clarity. By 1777, the British realized that they could not win the war if Washington chose to hold on. Yet Washington had known this for some time. Practically all his decisions were due to the fact that he acted on the advice of others against his own best judgment.

His immense and unbending dignity caused him to be somewhat aloof in his own day and has caused him to be a demigod rather than a real human being in the eyes of subsequent generations. But it can be said without fear of contradiction that he was one of the greatest human beings that ever trod the earth.

What Others Are Saying

BIG CHANGES COMING IN PACKING

(The Financial Post)

Big changes are coming in Canadian meat packing and merchandising, Canada Packers' President W. F. McLean told the Gordon Commission last week. The "corner butcher" is going the way of the functions now performed by the local butcher shop will be transferred to the central packing plant. Until recently most of the cutting up of dressed carcasses into family roasts and steaks had to be in local shops, often while the customer waited for it to be done. Then chain stores took the next steps. They are increasingly cutting up carcasses efficiently and providing the customer with a big assortment of pre-packaged cuts from which to make his selection. Next step, says McLean, will be for the cutting up process to be moved back into the abattoirs. This will make for much more efficient use of the whole carcass. But what will it do for the customers who want the good steaks three inches thick?

NOTES AND COMMENT

When last we were on the mainland the Progressive-Conservative conference had not long ended and the Liberals were under heavy fire in the House of Commons over the curious circumstances of the Harvard plane order for Egypt. It seemed a good time to ask people we knew about what was likely to happen in the next election. A good many of them said they hoped that the Liberals would be defeated. They thought the party had been in power too long for the good of democracy. They were not sure that the Conservatives under Mr. Drew would provide much better government but they seemed quite certain a change would be good. However, when it came to the point of asking what they were doing to help bring about that desired change, they admitted that they were doing and intended to do nothing at all.

Possibly there was not a great deal they could do in Quebec. Yet this apathetic and distant approach to an acute political problem seemed a little discouraging. And it was evident that there was no general belief in a change. For, in the last report of the Canadian Gallup Poll, the Liberal vote had gone down only three per cent but the Conservative support had not increased since the election of 1953.

The defection of three per cent in Liberal support represented small gains for the splinter parties. The CCF gained one per cent. Social Credit and Independents gained the other two per cent. And with the way that voting is divided among multiple parties on the mainland, the assumption is that the Liberals, retaining 47 per cent of the vote, can still earn a tidy majority.

That they deserve to have another large majority is more than questionable. The Liberals are a tired party. All the sparkle has gone out of them. Their initiative seems to have disappeared. There is not even good co-ordination between the departments. Strange instances of lack of liaison between cabinet ministers have been brought to public notice. Mr. Howe seems more autocratic and more individualistic than ever. Mr. St. Laurent seems less and less the forceful leader. Remove them and Walter Harris, Lester Pearson and Paul Martin from the cabinet and only shadows remain. Not enough new blood has been introduced and the government appears to act as if it had proprietary rights to office and was under no necessity to take any strong steps to keep it.

Now it is a fact that when a country is prosperous—and Canada has never been more prosperous—there is a general reluctance to change governments even if the government in power has lost a good deal of its drive and has been there far too long for the good of democracy in Canada. Yet it is a sad reflection upon the political thinking of Canadians that they are satisfied to let government become a monopoly not merely of one party but of the same old crowd in that party.

Within the past ten or fifteen years, a new generation of able men have been taking over some of the most responsible tasks that a rapidly growing nation has to offer. Canada is filled with good engineers, good scientists, good doctors and lawyers and businessmen and economists and ordinary citizens. But none of these people seem to be interested in politics. If they are interested, nobody seems anxious to give them a chance to show what they can do. And in the House of Commons, the great majority, being Liberals, are under the restraints of party discipline. If they have anything to say, they have little opportunity to say it.

This is not the sort of thing that seems consistent with the parliament of a rapidly growing nation. One would think the House of Commons would be full of young men full of stimulating ideas and bursting with the desire to express them for the benefit of the nation's growth and welfare. Too few of this kind of man get into parliament. Too many of them, once they are there, have to stay under wraps. The dynamic, the youthful spirit which is not necessarily restricted to the young in years, the enthusiasm, even the exuberance, which ought to be represented and demonstrated in the parliament of Canada are conspicuously by their absence. Safety first seems to be the guiding principle of the tired old men who run the Dominion today. Canada may be a young and expanding nation but you would never know it from a study of Hansard or the parliamentary reports in the newspapers.

Urges Development of Power Resources

OTTAWA (CP) — Opposition Leader Drew urged Monday the creation of a joint investment program that would provide federal assistance to any province requesting it for development of electric power resources.

He framed his proposal as an amendment to a routine government supply motion in the Commons. Technically, that made it a motion of non-confidence in the government.

Mr. Drew said he was in no way suggesting that the federal government should invade the resources field, which is within the exclusive jurisdiction of the provinces.

But it was apparent that some provinces needed financial help in developing their power resources. Some didn't need as much as others to make use of their water power resources but almost every province would require assistance to develop atomic energy projects that produce electricity.

He referred particularly to the long-discussed plan to build a power and irrigation dam on the South Saskatchewan river near Outlook, Sask. He also mentioned a proposed power project at Grand Falls on Labrador's Hamilton river.

SHOULD START DAM

Mr. Drew said the federal government should proceed as quickly as possible with the Saskatchewan project. The irrigation it would provide for an estimated 500,000 acres in the area and the power for development of secondary industries would stabilize the whole agriculture picture of Saskatchewan.

He predicted that if the Grand Falls dam were built power-consuming industry would soon grow up within reach of the project's electricity supply.

"Industry goes to power," he said.

EDITORIAL

Editor Daily News,
Dear Sir—In your issue of February 14, you did me the honor of publishing number one in the series: Epitomes, which was in two sections: "Check up on Health" and "Nom de Plumes."

However, the last paragraph from "Nom de Plumes" was omitted and in rather an unfortunate place. For those of your readers who may have been interested in the item, I hereby add the omitted part:

"Recently another prominent Russian, not a scientist, has instigated a revival in that science. The name is Molotov. The science, one which may some day revolutionize international language exchanges, is 'Esperanto,' and it bears the name, not of the inventor's real name—Zamenhof—but of his pseudonym—'Dr. Esperanto,' the word meaning 'One who hopes.'" to the leather chair and sat down.

"I'm sorry the phone awakened
you."
I leaned back in the chair and crossed my legs. As I did so, I saw that there were still a few gray cat hairs clinging to the blue flannel of my trousers. I thought of Alice Osborn's cat, the cat I'd named Rosemary, and I hoped that she would be happy in her new home at the county jail.
Carefully I picked the hairs from the flannel, and then leaned back again.
She was lying on her side facing me, her head resting on one upraised arm. In the sweater and blue jeans and under the soft light she was a pleasing and almost youthful sight. Maybe the absence of her dark-rimmed glasses added to the illusion.
"He used my gun," she said,
and her voice broke "I—I hate that."
"Don't blame yourself," I said.
She sighed deeply, turned on her back and gazed at the ceiling.
WILBUR must have taken the gun from her room, she said,
from the closet where she kept it. Her father had given it to her years ago, when she was 12 years old, because she liked to hunt in the woods with him. A rifle to a hike in the woods, I had learned, was as common as coaster wagons and doll buggies were to kids in more urban areas.
I gazed at her, at the soft shadowed planes of her face, and at her rather angular body clad in the sweater and the blue jeans.
There was a little dried mud on one cuff of the jeans—and I saw something else. Slowly I sat up, feeling a kind of cold numbness in the back of my brain. I leaned forward, peering intently, and I knew that I was not mistaken.
On one leg of the jeans, just above the ankle, there was a matted cluster of gray cat hairs.
I said softly, "You killed Alice,
didn't you?"
A kind of dreaminess was in her eyes. She gazed at the ceiling and spoke in a sing-song voice.
"What did you say?"
"Tell me about it, Nellie," I said. "Tell me how you killed Alice, because you couldn't bear to have her marry Wilbur. Tell me how your brother was all you had left, after your sweetheart was killed, and how you buried yourself in mothering Wilbur, and how you couldn't stand to have another woman here, not in your little dream world. Tell me all about it, Nellie."

She turned her head and now
her gaze was direct and sane.
"Whatever are you talking about,
Mr. Bennett?" she asked calmly.
"Would you mind repeating what you just said?"
"You heard me," I said with sudden harshness.
I warned her off with a forearm and she stumbled past me and almost fell. She whirled and came for me again and the wildcat look was in her eyes. Fingernails raked my cheek and for a couple of seconds I had my hands full just trying to save my eyes.
She was amazingly strong and fought savagely and silently. It is embarrassing and degrading to be forced to struggle physically with a woman in anger, and I remembered similar previous encounters with distaste and shame.
But sometimes, like now, it can't be helped, and I held her off,
hoping that she would give up.
But she didn't. Quickly and cunningly she twisted from my grasp. When I hit her again it was truly in self-defense. I hit her on the left cheek with my open palm and there wasn't time to be careful about it. It jarred her. I used a fist then, and that did it. She fell away from me with a sharp little moan. I tried to catch her, but I missed. She hit the floor and lay quite still.

I GOT out a handkerchief, drabbed at my cheek and then
wrapped it around my wrist
where she'd bit me.
Then I knelt over Nellie Tweed and placed two fingers beneath her throat, just under her right ear. Her pulse was strong and regular. I was thinking of finding a bathroom and bringing a towel soaked in cold water, when her eyes opened. She stared up at me.
"You're all right," I said. "I'm sorry I had to hit you."
"Doyle," she said. "I dreamed you were Doyle. It—I was silly.
Doyle is dead."

World Day Of Prayer Service

On the afternoon of Friday, February 17th, the beautiful edifice of Gower Street United Church was thronged with women of many denominations gathered together to unite spiritually with women similarly minded throughout the universe on the World Day of Prayer.
This year's service, the theme of which was One Flock — One Shepherd, was arranged by St.
Andrew's and Queen's Road Presbyterian churches and Mrs. (Rev.)
A. M. Old, who acted as the leader, also gave the address which gave much food for thought as she directed the minds of all present to how best the Christian aim can be achieved although all not treading the same path yet, as one flock finally attaining the same goal. Others taking an active part in the service were Mrs. A.
Oke, Miss Ethel Thomas, Mrs.
Wm. Tifford, Major Brown, S.A.,
Mrs. W. L. Langille, Mrs. Philip
S. Abraham, Mrs. H. M. Butt and Mrs. Williams. Our near neighbours at Fort Pepperrell, too, were represented by Mrs. Dwight Maul who spoke and Mrs. Schleiter who rendered a very lovely solo accompanied on the organ by Mr. Robert McLeod, Organist of the Kirk.
Mrs. Lewis Bartlett who, as Secretary of the local council of the World Day of Prayer in this community contributes much from her store of knowledge and experience.
The congregational singing was truly an inspiration as nearly one thousand voices rose in one accord to the well known hymns prescribed for the occasion.
The annual day of worship and intercession is becoming more and more an institution in the world as evidenced in the increase in attendance from year to year and here in Newfoundland more communities are participating in the services.

The Woman's Page

New Clothes Are for Everyone

The look of spring is embodied in these three silhouettes, each with lines quite different from the others. Gray worsted suit by Ben Reig (left) has fitted jacket that has low hipband. Skirt is very full but pleats are handled for look of lightness typical of this spring's fashions. A sheer gray wool dress (center) has very slim lines, is cut with bolero. Top part of dress itself is pale beige silk surah. Over this goes front-fastened bolero with little round collar. This is an Oleg Cassini design. Coat (right) has look of width but actually is so light as to be nearly weightless. It's cut without buttons, has tiny mandarin collar, no cuffs.

BY GAILE DUGAS

NEW YORK — (NEA) — A spring that gives women the suit with the dress with little bolero and fitted jacket and full, pleated skirt. slim lines and the coat that has a look of width and almost no weight is offering pretty, wearable clothes.

And that's just what this spring does. Nothing radical, nothing drastic, nothing impossible to wear. With some modification, these new fashions are meant for everybody. You needn't diet away to a toothpick to fit into them nor remove your hips (by magic, of course) overnight.

The look is one of ladylike elegance. This extends into accessories, of course. They've been decorated. Nothing radical, nothing fashions, to point up the slim lines. They, stay in press, press with to play upon the soft neutrality of beige.

Fabrics follow out the ladylike theme. Mixtures and blends and new lightweights have combined to produce fabrics that sit like a cloud on the shoulder, suits and dresses that are whisper light. Best of all, these new, light fabrics retain their shape far beyond the powers of fabrics in past years.

Doctor Jordan Says

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D.

SULFA AND COMPRESSES OFFER SORE THROAT RELIEF

Nearly everyone has suffered from a sore throat at one time or another. Some sore throats follow or are part of the common cold. Others are simply tonsillitis or are infections which act on the throat without spreading up to the nose or down to the voice box and lower breathing tubes.

Occasionally sore throat is associated with diseases elsewhere in the body, like digestive upsets or gout. Sore throat usually precedes an attack of rheumatic fever.

BEFORE THE THROAT becomes thoroughly "sore" there is often a feeling of uneasiness, difficulty in swallowing, or tickling or dryness in the throat with a desire to cough and hawk. The person who has such symptoms would be wise to stay home in bed not only because this may shorten the course of the sore throat but also because it would avoid infecting others.

Probably most cases of sore throat are caught from other people. Germs, particularly streptococci, are usually responsible and are breathed in from someone else's throat as a result of sneezing, coughing or talking loudly in a confined space.

IN A SEVERE sore throat chilly feelings and slight fever are the rule. Occasionally, the body temperature may rise quite high, especially if the tonsils are involved. The usual variety of acute sore throat does not require more than a few days rest in bed. Spraying the nose and throat with simple solutions helps some people and sometimes painting the throat speeds recovery.

The use of powdered sulfa preparations may be of value. Comfort is greatly increased by the use of hot compresses or an ice bag applied to the neck. The discomfort can often be relieved also and the fever brought down by the use of aspirin or some of its relatives of the salicylate family. Penicillin or its relatives are frequently helpful.

OCCASIONALLY a chronic sore throat, or repeated attacks of sore throat, may follow an acute attack. This is especially common in someone who drinks alcohol to excess, smokes a great deal or who uses his or her voice often and hard.

In the treatment of this type of sore throat, the general health must be looked after. The particular cause which is keeping the sore throat from getting better should be investigated and corrected if possible.

For example, those sore throats which come from excessive use of the voice may merely require a fairly long period of silence. Gargles, sprays and the like may bring temporary relief. In chronic cases the removal of distressed tonsils is often desirable.

Baby

BY BETSY WADE

Some mothers consider it condemnation to say their Babies have colic, feeling it's their fault. It is, however, quite a relief to discover that it is this temporary disorder that's bothering Baby, not something of a more abiding nature.

Baby on a milk strike? Try juices of all sorts or water, to satisfy his thirst. He'll go back, but if you're worried about Baby's milk intake, load up on the puddings and other milk foods. But the main secret is just waiting.

Thinking It Over For Lent

By Rohl, Dieffenbacher, D.D.

What's wrong with your picture tube? When you first got your television the lines were steady and sharp and you could see the features of the characters. There was no fluttering and no jumping on the screen.

But of late the whole picture is dimming. Just at the moment when you want to know whether the guest is going on to the next question, or whether he is going to take the check and go home, the picture jumps out of focus and you see only a jumble of lines and spaces.

So you call the serviceman. He has to replace some parts or make some adjustments or replace the whole picture tube. And you wonder if it would not be better to get a whole new set.

Sometimes when we look at people we find that they, too, are not presenting a clear picture of honesty, faith, love and consistency.

At first the picture is dimmed only a trifle, but as time goes on we find our friends not wanting to watch the life pictures we present. Soon we find ourselves with few viewers except for the ones who enjoy the grotesque, the ugly and the distorted.

Before we deteriorate into the category of the dimmed picture tube, it is well to go to the Repairman and have some parts of our lives replaced. What is more, we all know how to reach the great Repairman of men's souls.

Guides, Brownies Play On C.B.N.

This evening, February 22nd, at 6:45 p.m., over Radio Station CBN, a group of St. John's Brownies and Guides, under the direction of Miss Ann Chatwood, Brown Owl, of the 2nd St. John's Brownie Company, and Miss Florence Martin, Lt. of the 3rd St. John's Guide Company, are producing two short plays to celebrate Thinking Day, Lady Baden-Powell's birthday. The Brownies will take you to an imaginary birthday party for the Chief Guide, while the guides will give you their idea of the opening of the Guide Cabana which Lady Baden-Powell is opening on Thinking Day in memory of Lord Baden-Powell.

Manners Make Friends

When someone takes you lunch or dinner in a restaurant, don't say, "Let me leave the guest when you are the guest or hostess take care of everything."

It's not only more gracious way—it's less confusing.

Household Hints

As a safety measure in your kitchen, don't let grease accumulate on the stove. If grease catches fire in a pan, drop a lid or cover over it or throw on it.

Ash trays should be washed more often than you think. Moist cloth won't rid them of stale odor.

There is something about a hand that has no relation to mitten ever made. Sometimes Baby wants to grasp on a toy or hold a toy, it's best to let go mittless. He won't get a bite unless it's that cold and he's happier.

SCENE AT THE BELL ISLAND ARENA NEILL AMADIO COACHING SOME OF HIS 300 PEE-WEE HOCKEYISTS

Hockey Activities

The first game of the play-offs between Bell Island All-Stars and the Conception Bay North aggregation took place at the Bell Island Arena Monday night. The Islanders did not have to go all out in that game. At the end of the first period the local team held a commanding lead of 8-0. In the second period Bell Island seemed to slacken up and scored only two goals, the visitors getting two, making it 10-2 as the period ended. Bell Island scored five in the final period, and the visitors also scored 5, making the score 15-7 at the end of the game.

Another game in the series will have been played before this appears in print.

It would seem that the Conception Bay team has little chance of beating the Islanders.

The semi-finals will open in the Bell Island Arena on Friday night, between the St. John's Bees and Bell Island All-Stars, 1955 champions in the "B" Division.

PEE WEES

Coach Neill Amadio has his hands full these days. He has 300 Pee Wees to look after during the day and the Bell Island Arena is a hive of activity from seven each morning until six each evening.

Temperature of the human body was the first "zero", or fixed point, in connection of thermometers, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

To improvise a ring mold, place a greased tin can in the center of a well-greased casserole.

Some members of the Council were concerned over the dog regulations, and requested the Peace Officer to check on this matter immediately. It seems that numerous dogs have been roaming around lately without licence or owners, and one report stated that seventeen dogs had been sighted in one pack last week. A dim view will be taken over the matter in future and the regulation will be strictly enforced.

The Town Manager reported on snow clearing and pointed out that practically all by-roads had been now taken care of.

The garbage collection which had to be temporarily suspended because of the snow storm, was also practically back to normal.

The meeting adjourned at approximately 10:30 p.m.

opening of the afternoon sessions are from 4-8 and in the evening from 7:15 to 9:15 p.m. Ten gentlemen and twenty ladies have started work at the Wabana Boys' Club, or will be starting within the next week. We need at least ten more gentlemen in order to have full coverage at every programme. Any adult who is interested in the boys of this community and wants to render a real service, should phone 301.

There are two hundred and fifty boys who are members of the Wabana Boys' Club. Many have applied for membership during the past few days, but we regret that at the moment, we are unable to accept any more applications. When other facilities are available, it might be possible to add to our number.

Last Friday night one hundred boys came to the Boys' Club for games, homework and to read in the library. On Saturday morning some little fellows were at the club at 8 a.m., although the club was scheduled for 10:30. These boys need all the support that adults can give them. We count on your assistance.

Promoted Major J Company

MAJOR STEPHEN HUNT

A recent promotion was made in "J" Company, C.I.B., at Bell Island, when the O.C., Capt. Stephen Hunt, was raised to the rank of Major. He first joined the Church Lads Brigade at Harbour Grace in 1912. In the first World War he served overseas in the Royal Newfoundland Regiment, and joined Bell Island C.I.B. in 1934 as Co-Sergt. Major and also acted as P.T. Instructor.

We offer our congratulations to the new Major on his well merited success.

Ex-Member M.V. Maneco

TED MITCHELL

Mr. Ted Mitchell, a familiar figure on the ferry "Maneco" for nearly twenty years, is pictured here at his home in Portugal Cove. "Uncle Ted", as he was known to all, made his last trip on the Tickle Christmas Eve, when the Maneco ceased operating on the Bell Island-Portugal Cove run after nearly a quarter of a century of continuous and faithful service.

Mr. Mitchell was a general favourite with all, and takes with him the best wishes of everybody in his future undertakings.

Many Happy Returns

Many happy returns of the day to Mrs. Gordon Normore who celebrated her birthday on February 20th.

This committee will also look into the possibility of having an office opened on the Island for the purchasing of new license plates. This will be a considerable save to car owners as the travel expenses will be eliminated, and would also eliminate having to stand in line and wait their turn.

CAPITOL

Held Over

"THE KENTUCKIAN"

Burt Lancaster has done a fine thing in his debut as a motion picture director with "The Kentuckian." CinemaScope Technicolor which opens tomorrow at the Capitol Theatre through United Artists release. He has taken an action-packed, swashbuckling fragment of frontier history and infused it with a rich, warm story and topped it with lovable characters. Lancaster himself stars in the film as Big Eli, finds Kentucky to be a land of love and hate, and heads for Texas, "Where a man has room to move about."

Lancaster's feminine co-stars are two extreme attractive young women of different types. The rather demure, conservative school teacher of a small frontier town is played by Diana Lynn. She falls in love with Lancaster but realizes it would be cruel to tie him down as a merchant in a little town, and so loses him to the more wild impulsive backwoods girl, played by Dianne Foster, whose nature and interests are similar to Eli's. Ten-year-old Donald MacDonald, who plays the appealing role of Lancaster's motherless son, turns in a performance that will endear him to all audiences. Other prominent actors in the cast, all of whom do splendid characterizations include Walter Matthau, John McElduff, Uwe Merkel, John Garradine and John Littel.

The screen adaptation of Felix Holt's best-selling novel, "The Kentuckian" was written by Pauline Kael and A. B. Guthrie Jr. Harold Hecht produced the film.

PARAMOUNT

Now Playing

AUDIE MURPHY, IN "TO HELL AND BACK"

When his mother dies, 17-year-old Audie Murphy (Audie Murphy), sole support of his five brothers and sisters, sees the necessary dismemberment of the family by juvenile authorities.

Following the Japanese sneak attack upon Pearl Harbor Audie tries to enlist in the Marines and Navy both without success because he is underweight and not physically qualified. The Army takes him with reservations and he joins Company B, 15th Infantry, 3rd Division as a replacement in North Africa. His war buddies are Kovak, the Pole (Richard Castle); Valentino, the Italian (Paul Picerni); Swope, the Cherokee (Felix Noriega); Kerrigan, the Irishman (Jack Kelly); Brandon, the Kentuckian (Charles Drake) and Johnson, the great lover (Marshall Thompson). As they march and fight from Sicily to the Volturno and Anzio, from Southern France to the Colmar Pocket and Germany the veterans of North Africa find a friend and a leader of abundant courage in young Audie. They learn to love and protect one another.

CORNWALL

To-morrow

"CITY OF BAD MEN" WITH JEANNE CRAIN

A highly unusual and thrilling Western, "City of Bad Men," opens tomorrow at the Cornwall Theatre. Starring Jeanne CRAIN and Dale Robertson, the Twentieth Century-Fox Technicolor outdoor drama revolves around the famous Fitzsimmons-Corbett fight in Carson City at the turn of the Century.

All of the turbulence of the era and the excitement of the "tough-packed" community has been deftly woven into this satisfying screen drama. "City of Bad Men" is crammed with entertainment values. It has love complications between beautiful Jeanne CRAIN and Dale Robertson, the clashes of outlaw bands who come to town looking for trouble and loot, and it has the added spectacle of the world championship heavyweight fight. The drama opens with Robertson, as one of the West's most notorious outlaws, riding into Carson City with his gang and finding a teeming community anxious to witness the championship fight. Eventually, other notorious gangs show up. The battle among them, as they fight for supremacy and the $100,000 take of the ring battle is almost as fabulous as the championship fight itself. Jeanne CRAIN is seen as Robertson's fiery, red-headed sweetheart, who is torn between love and hate for him.

Robertson is at his best in "City of Bad Men." Miss CRAIN looks beautiful and gives a winning performance. "City of Bad Men" was produced by Leonard Goldstein, directed by Harmon Jones and written by George W. George and George F. Slavin.

STAR

Tomorrow

"THE SCARLET SPEAR"

When Ray Stahl and George Breakston get an idea for a movie they pack up and go. No matter if the movie is set in Salinas, Kansas or Zanzibar, East Africa. Their latest production, "The Scarlet Spear" in Technicolor, which opens tomorrow at the Star Theatre, is an example of the search for reality that has always marked their productions. The story concerns an old ritual of an African tribe that requires the son of a dead Chief to perform certain Herculean deeds before taking up the scepter and ruling his inherited domain. So, off they went to Africa. The principals in the cast were but three. The native Morasi who plays the Chief's son; lovely actress Martha Hyer and English actor John Bentley, a newcomer to American audiences.

But being in Africa with cast ship heavyweight fight.

and crew was not enough for Breakston-Stahl. They took cameras, equipment and people across the vast lion infested plains and as the cameras ground day-after-day, they invaded the dread Ituri forest, one of three rain forests in the world abounding in constricting and poisonous snakes and finally to the Ruwenzori, the Mountains of the Moon which, by the way, gave Miss Hyer the distinction of being the first white woman to ever set foot on that summit.

All of these locales are contained in the Nairobi National Park which is a pleasant term for an area covering 40,000 square miles in which no animal can be hunted and through this sanctuary the Park contains more than a million beasts of every description from the Tse-Tse fly to the rouge elephant. Not a bench or a carousell in the whole place.

Making pictures on location has been the hallmark of all Breakston-Stahl films. They have worked together in Australia, New Guinea, the Philippines, Japan, the Matto-Grosso of Brazil, and Zanzibar.

In the search for the best locations the Breakston-Stahl expedition traveled over 22,000 miles by air and 18,000 miles overland throughout Kenya, Uganda, Tanganyika, Belgian Congo, Somaliland, French Equatorial Africa, Anglo-Egyptian Sudan keeping in touch with the main party through short-wave radio.

Austerity Measures Announced by Govt.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 22 (AP)—The government today announced a series of measures to curb inflation, including a 5 per cent cut in government salaries and a 10 per cent cut in the salaries of federal judges. The measures are part of a broader effort to reduce government spending and control inflation.

DOWN PAYMENTS on articles such as lawn mowers, bath fixtures, luggage, furniture and lamps were ordered boosted from 15 to 20 per cent.

TIGHTEN BELTS—Macmillan announced broad government economies.

State owned industries such as the railways and coal mines will have their modernization programs cut by £20,000,000.

Defence outlays for 1955-56 are to drop £33,000,000 to £1,499,000,000.

Government spending was cut by £20,000,000. Civil service staff will be reduced by 10,000 or more persons.

Macmillan already has boosted the Bank of England's interest rate on borrowed money, which had been 4½ per cent, to 5½. That is the highest since the economic crisis of 1931.

The Labor party introduced a motion censuring the government's economic policies. It will be debated next Monday and Tuesday.

Nashua Makes Great Start In 4-Year Old Race

By GENE FLOWDEN

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Nashua gave 42,366 racing fans the thrill of their lives Saturday when he just stepped out of the finish to win the $129,800 Widener Handicap at Hialeah Park.

Carrying top weight of 127 pounds, Nashua ran the 1¼ miles in 2:02, one second off the stakes and track record of 2:01 set by El Mono in this event in 1948.

Nashua was making his first start as a four-year-old and had Jockey Eddie Arcaro to guide him. It took all the speed Nashua had and the experience of "Headie Eddie" to whip the powerful Alfred G. Vanderbilt pair of Social Outcast and Find.

The latter, under Ted Atkinson with 114 pounds, set the early pace and Nashua didn't catch him until the final strides. Social Outcast laid back for the first mile and put on a stretch run to finish second, while Find dropped back to fourth. Brookmeade Stable's Sailor got up to third in the blanket finish.

THE problem in today's hand is to avoid loss of a diamond and three clubs. If South plays the hand "normally," by taking a diamond finesse, he will lose to the queen. Then a club will come back from the East hand, and the defenders will rattle off three clubs tricks to defeat the contract.

South can avoid this horrible fate by a foolproof method of play. See if you can spot the right line.

Declarer should win the first trick in dummy with the ace of hearts, draw two trumps, cash the king and ace of diamonds, and then lead the jack of hearts from dummy. South throws his last diamond on this trick, allowing West to win.

West can now do nothing to defeat the contract.

If West has one more diamond and leads it, South will ruff. Declarer can then get to dummy with a trump in order to discard on dummy's last diamond (which will then be good).

If West has both of the missing diamonds, he cannot afford to lead the queen. If West leads the queen, if West leads the king of diamonds, dummy puts up the jack. In short, West cannot afford to lead a diamond whether he has one or both.

Any return except a diamond makes matters easier for South. If West leads a club, South is sure to win a trick with the king. And if West leads a heart, dummy ruffs, while South discards a club.

CIVIL STRIKE ENDS

JERUSALEM (Reuters)—Eight thousand government - employed doctors, engineers and agricultural experts ended an 11-day strike and returned to work Monday. The government has agreed to grant them pay increases they demand retroactively from July 1, 1955. But one-third of the extra pay for this year will be held back until 1957 and 1958.

CASABLANCA (AP)—Sixty Moroccan serving terms for minor offences escaped from Casablanca civil prison Monday. Police rounded up five of them but there was no trace of the others.

REPORT 23 KILLED

CAIRO (Reuters)—The Arab news Agency, in a report from Khartoum, said 20 farm workers, two policemen and a village guard were killed Sunday in a clash between 1,000 farm workers and police at Kosti, in the Blue Nile province. The clash was said to have occurred after farmers of the Gouda project, owned by a Sudanese company, refused to deliver the season's cotton crop to the company. Police intervened and tried to disperse farm workers who were armed with spears and sticks, the agency said.

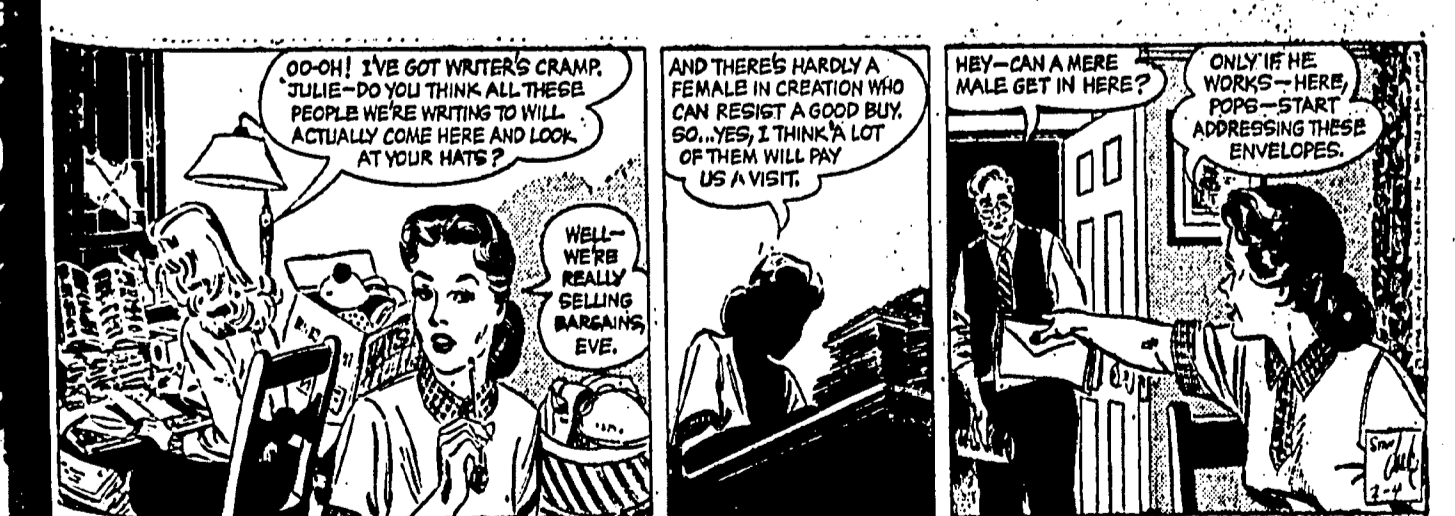

PHOTO FINISH

It took a photo to decide the winner and it was Nashua by a head, Social Outcast second by a head, Sailor third by a neck and Find 2½ lengths back in fourth.

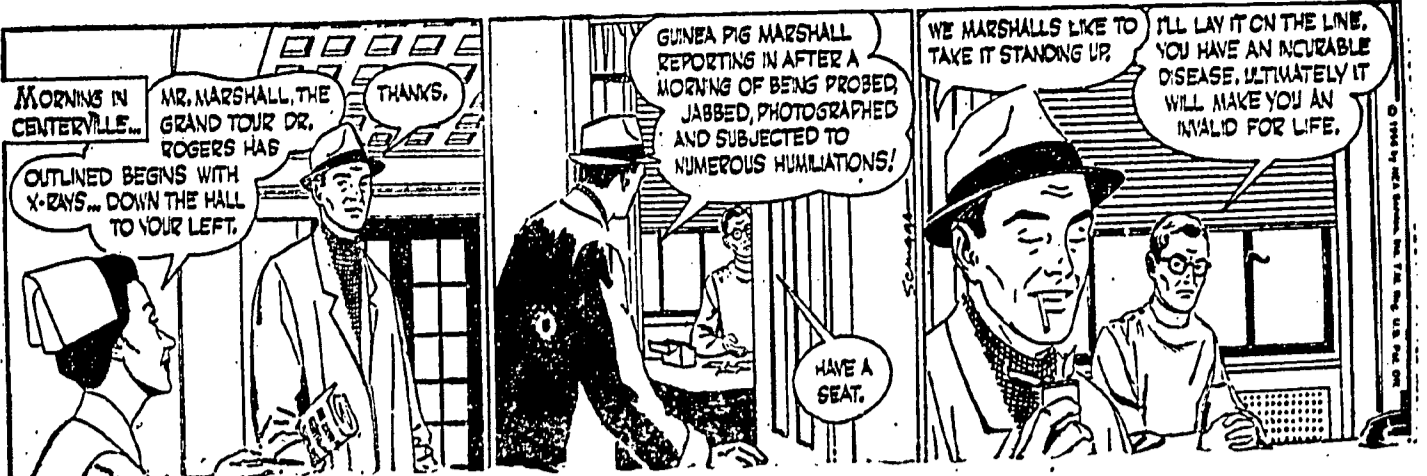

It was Nashua's first appearance in the burnt orange and blue silks of Leslie Combs II, head of the syndicate that bought him for the record price of $121,200 last December from the estate of the late William Woodward Jr.

Bell Island News

Sudden Passing William F. Noseworthy

A wide circle of friends on Bell Island learned with profound regret of the sudden passing of Mr. William Noseworthy, which occurred at his home, Grammar St., Wabana Mines, on Sunday morning, February 19. Mr. Noseworthy was stricken with a heart attack on February 3rd, which was followed by a paralytic stroke several days later. Early Sunday morning he suffered another heart attack, and despite all that medical science and loving hands could do it was to no avail, and his gentle spirit winged its way shortly before noon on the above mentioned date home to the throne of Him who gave it.

Born at Tilt Cove, N.D.B., on July 4th, 1898, son of the late Thomas and Margaret Noseworthy, he received his education at that place. On leaving school, he worked for some time with the Tilt Cove Copper Mining Company in their assay department. Coming to the Island in 1916, he secured employment with the Dominion Iron and Steel Company in the mechanical department, where he worked for a number of years. In 1920 he went to the U.S.A. and after working for two years in Everett, Mass., returned to the Island again, and went to work in the Company's laboratory, where he remained a faithful employee until his sudden illness just over a fortnight ago. Respected for his integrity, fairness to all and for his great loyalty to his employers and to the industry, the deceased counted people at all levels of activity and responsibility among his many friends.

"Billy" Noseworthy, as he was affectionately known, was one of nature's gentlemen, possessing that rather unusual combination of strength of moral character and genuine friendliness which made him admired and respected by all who knew him.

A devoted husband and father, his family life was characterized by the practice of the simple, homely virtues that he preached. The sorrowing family may take comfort in the knowledge that their grief is shared by all who knew him, and to know him was to admire and respect him.

Members of the surviving family are his wife (nee Hannah Rees) four sons, Douglas, Billie, Wayne and Ted, Bell Island; six daughters, Doris (Mrs. Charles Skinner), Daphne (Mrs. Charles Snow), at Windsor, Ont., both of whom were with their father when he passed away; Evelyn (Mrs. Ted Parsons), Effie (Mrs. Luke Normore), Shirley (Mrs. Temple Armstrong), and Carol, all on the Island; two brothers, Jack and Randolph, Bell Island, and one sister, Mrs. Frances O'Donnell, Outer Cove. Also 13 grandchildren.

He has not died who leaves you For the better land of day; He would not so bereave you, He's only "just away". And night behind life's curtain Beyond all grief and pain, There'll be a happier dawning When you shall meet again.

APRON ALLEY

Ordinarily when we are planning our main dishes we give most attention to the meat or fish, and are apt to serve the vegetables in the same old way, that is, boiled and buttered up a little. We overlook the possibilities for adding real interest and zip to a meal by "fancying" the vegetables occasionally. And by combining vegetables with eggs, cheese sauce, or other protein foods, they become the basis, instead of the accompaniment, of a luncheon or supper dish. Here are two such vegetable meals:

CABBAGE IN CHEESE SAUCE
1 large, firm head cabbage
1/4 cup butter, melted
1/4 cup flour
1 tsp. salt
Few grains pepper
2 cups milk
1 1/2 cups grated, sharp cheddar cheese

Shred cabbage, cover with boiling salted water; cook about 8 minutes, or until tender-crisp. Drain. Melt butter, blend in flour, cheese, salt and pepper. Add milk; cook, stirring constantly, until smooth and thickened. Add cabbage; mix well. Makes 8 to 10 servings.

ASPARAGUS AU GRATIN

Asparagus
Salt
Pepper
Grated cheese

The amounts of the above ingredients that you use will be determined by the number of people you intend to serve, and is left to your own judgment. Arrange cooked asparagus (fresh, canned, or quick-frozen) on baking sheet. Dot with butter, sprinkle with salt and pepper. Top lavishly with grated cheese. Place in broiler with surface of food about 4 inches below heat. (Or place in a hot oven). Broil or bake until cheese browns lightly. Serve on toast.

We have next a recipe which we have been intending to pass along to you for the past few weeks, but each time we would forget; and so before we forget it again, here it is—a wonderful recipe for doughnuts:

SOUR MILK DOUGHNUTS
3/4 cups sifted all-purpose flour (approx.)
3 teaspoons baking powder
1/2 teaspoon baking soda
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
2 eggs
2/3 cup granulated sugar
2 tablespoons melted shortening
2/3 cup sour milk
Fat for frying.

Mix and sift dry ingredients together on a square of waxed paper. Beat eggs in a mixing bowl. Gradually beat in sugar. Add shortening and sour milk. Stir in sifted dry ingredients. The dough should be soft like a tea-biscuit dough. So, if necessary, add more flour to make the dough a soft one that can be handled easily.

Turn out on a slightly floured board and roll to about 1/2 inch thickness. Cut with a floured doughnut cutter.

Fry in deep fat which has been heated to 365 degrees F., turning frequently until golden brown. When slightly cooled, dip in fine granulated or icing sugar.

Kiwanis Activities At Wabana

The weekly luncheon meeting was held on Thursday night of last week instead of Wednesday. A very large number of members were present as well as the following guests, Ed. Boone, guest of Bill Boone, John Neary, guest of Bill Clarke, L. J. Lawton, guest of Charlie Carew, Ranny Butler, guest of Lloyd LeDrew, R. Knight, guest of Peter Rees, and Nathan Cohen guest of Jack Cohen.

Congratulations were tendered to the following Kiwanians who recently celebrated birthdays: Max Boone Feb. 4, Walter Templeman February 6, Benny Glick, February 10, Charlie Carew February 13 and Peter Rees, Bill Rees and Brian Murphy on February 14th.

In honor of the annual seal fishery which is soon to begin, the gathering gave voice in true Newfoundland fashion to the song, "A Noble Fleet Of Sealers," words of which were published in this week's Club Bulletin.

As a special treat and in honor of the recent important announcement of Premier Smallwood, Joe Basha sang "I Was On The Labrador Meg Boys." He omitted the first 54 verses.

Steven Neary, on behalf of the local Tuberculosis Association thanked all who helped make this year's campaign a great success.

Ships Of Old St. John's

By C.M.F.F.
Where are the ships we used to know
That sailed through the "Narrows" on ebbing tide
Over fifty years ago,
With billowing sails and stately pride?

In they came past the Amherst light,
With sunbeams dancing on sail and spar,
Sails flung out like gulls in flight
From countries near and far.

Schooner and bark and brigantine
Their headway deadened as sails are furled,
One wonders what sighs they may have seen
In different parts of the world.

French and English and Dane,
Yankee, Spanish and Portuguese,
Here's a home ship back again
With stories logged of the sea.

Household names in this salt sea town,
"Belle of the Exe" and "Nancy Lea"
"Cordelia" trim, and "Sally Brown".
Familiar names as they put to sea.

Full many a time I saw them go
Out through the "Narrows" with crew so brave,
The D.P. Ingram had them in tow
As the sunbeams raved over the wave.

Throughout the day we could hear the sound
Of the rattle of blocks and the ship's brass bell,
And the bang of the capstan as it whirled around
As the ebb tide rose and fell.

The sailor's shanties, the mate's rough shout,
The boatswain's whistle piping shrill,
And the roar as the anchor chain runs out—
I seem to hear them still.

I fancy I can see with all their gear,
The Plysomial line as the ships career,
The jack or ensign at peak fly clear
Like a moving picture screen.

The fog still hangs o'er the Southside tips,
The gulls in the harbour fly to and fro,
But where are the trim, the stately ships
We knew so long ago?

Ed. Russell announced a meeting of the Christmas Fund Committee to be held at the Court House on Wednesday, February 22 at 8 p.m. to finalize this year's work.

The program for the evening took the form of a Newfoundland quiz program with two teams of five members each. The program was conducted by Walter Templeman and the judges were Lou Lawton and Ranny Butler. Team B consisting of G. Martin, H. Tucker, J. Basha, F. Newhook and D. Chafe won by a close decision.

The special speaker for this evening's meeting will be Brigadier Bennett.

To The Editor

Editor Daily News,
Dear Sir—How come! I watch with astonishment the Bulldozer operation for the excavation of the proposed F. W. Woolworth Building.

Thousands and thousands of cubic yards of earth pushed and bulldozed into the waters of our Harbour.

Who has jurisdiction over the waters, and who gave permission to the contractors to carry out the work in this manner!

Action on the part of the authority in question is demanded.

Yours truly,
Sideways Superintendent.
